Annual Meeting: About 44 people attended the Annual Meeting of the Society at Old Bethpage Village on Long Island. Transporting members by bus was successful: some attendees are hoping for another bus trip! Those attending enjoyed the good weather. Under the personal leadership of member John Stevens, who has served as Preservation Consultant at the Village, members had a behind the scenes look at the Dutch barn, another barn, a house, and other structures ordinarily closed to the public, and heard the inside story of exhibits. They visited the living history farm, and also watched skilled wool spinners in the Cooper House.
